Noy marks Cory's 79th b-day in CDO, Iligan

By Christine O. Avendaño and Fe Zamora

ON MONDAY would have been the 79th birthday of former President Corason Aquino, but now, now the President, spent the day rallying people, especially the victims of the most recent natural disaster in the country, to live the spirit of People Power.

In Sta. Elena, Iligan City, yesterday, President Aquino helped erect a "Cory pinoy" a house for a family that had lost its home last month to Tropical Storm "Bongding."

The day also happened to be

Senate bars evidence on CJ's 'ill-gotten wealth'

By Cathy C. Yanesan, Christine V. Espinosa and TJ Borgeles

THE YEAR Chief Justice Renato Corona supposedly bought the classy 303.5-square-meter penthouse worth P14 million in The Bellagio in Taguig City, he paid a withholding tax of P155,556.20 and earned a gross income of only P621,528.62.

Another senator judge from the Liberal Party had to stand up to offer this information from a witness yesterday.

This time, a seemingly important Sen. Binay flexed his hand and began asking Sen. Jovito Salonga, commissioner of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, about Corona's tax payments at the height of a verbal tangle between defense counsel Scotty Corona and private prosecutor Arthur Lim.

In a series of questions to Salonga, Binay denied figures on tax deductions from the so-called "alpha" lists that government agencies and private companies submit detailing income tax deductions of their personnel after Lim failed to explain these because of defense objections supported by Senate President Juan Ponce Enrile, the presiding officer.

Corona questioned the relevance of the

P-Noy on Llamas' DVDs: He could've been just passing by

By Christine Avendaño, Harman Baralanda, Gil C. Cabacungan and Jocelyn Uy

SEN. ELENA, Iligan City—He could just have been "passing by" the mall, President Aquino said of this controversial political adviser who was photographed apparently purchasing pirated DVDs, email an inquiry for Ronald Llamas to be either arrested or fined for violating the law.

Mr. Aquino said he would have to first ask Llamas what he was doing at the Circle C mall on Congressional Avenue on Monday

Witness says IBP head got P5M from Mike A in '01

By Joanne Rasing

WHY DID Integrated Bar of the Philippines (IBP) president Raula Ibarra receive P500,000 from the husband of then President Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo in May 2001?

A former employee of IBP Inc., which is owned by the family of Jose Miguel "Mike" Arroyo, has surfaced with a story of a decade-old incident when he said he was given P500,000 by Arroyo's wife, Ms. Victoria "Vicky" Tola, for deposit to Ibarra's bank account.

In an affidavit executed last Jan. 17, the wife-Mr. Arroyo said that on May 7, 2001, he accompanied Tola to the United Coconut Planters Bank (UCPB) branch in Makati City, where she handed him a filled up deposit slip to be given to the bank teller. He said the deposit slip indicated that the P500,000 cash he was carrying

SC coco levy ruling called 'too late, too obscure'

By TJ Borgeles

THE SUPREME COURT ruling that the government owned a portion of the multi-billion peso coconut levy funds collected from farmers during the Ferdinand Marcos regime was "too obscure," "too late" and "too little," Sen. Joker Arroyo said yesterday. Arroyo said that the court ruling was unclear over how the coconut farmers, who had been directly levied taxes by the government under the Marcos dictatorship, could benefit from it.

"Where does the reduced 24 percent go?" he said of the block of shares in San Miguel Corp. (SMC) registered under the Coconut Industry Investment Fund (CIIIF) and its holding companies, and held in trust by the government for coconut farmers.

"To the government or to the farmers? That is the question."

This was originally 27 percent but was reduced to 24 percent

Basilan villagers disarmed after fishers' massacre

POJCE disarmed villagers in Basilan and will not their response to determine whether they were involved in the massacre. 15 fishermen were in a suspected fish boat before the massacre.

The law enforcement, who was initially accused, told investigators that the gunmen ordered the fishermen to get out of the boat after the fishing speed before opening fire.

Another informant who escaped the shooting described how he saw the bodies of the fishermen and bodies of the fishermen were lying on the ground. "They were murdered," said the informant.

Regional police officer Wilfredo also said that the bodies were recovered from the sea and the bodies were not recovered. "I am missing and presumed dead," he said, and the last recovered bodies did not sink or float away because the water was not deep enough to sink the bodies.

Fishing at risk

Basilan provincial military commander Col. Ricardo Reyes said the initial investigation indicated that the killing was organized by a conflict group and not a fishing group.

Law enforcement in the area is weak, and the bodies of the fishermen and political activists are not recovered. "The bodies of the fishermen and political activists are not recovered," he said.

Residents of villages killed and their families are not recovered. "The bodies of the fishermen and political activists are not recovered," he said.

Ilocos prosecutor tapped as NBI officer in charge

By Jerome Daling

JUSTICE Secretary Leila de Lima yesterday designated the chief prosecutor of the Ilocos Region, Narciso Cana, as the new officer in charge of the NBI's Ilocos Region.

Canan, head of the association of regional prosecutors of the Philippines, replaced Magno Gacala, who was sacked after being implicated in the abduction and alleged execution of a legitimate national.

The secretary explained that he decided to appoint an outsider to temporarily head the NBI while the office was a makeshift or interim of the country's premier investigating agency the unit's permanent replacement would be decided within a month.

He also said Canan would still only have administrative functions while the board would temporarily assume major decision-making powers in the NBI.

In his Department Order No. 001, the Lima said Canan, who will only stay in the NBI for 30 days, would oversee the day-to-day administration of the NBI in addition to his existing duties and responsibilities as regional prosecutor.

"The designation shall not include the power to act as a member in the policy-making, approval of law enforcement and operations, appointment and firing of personnel, and other administrative functions," he said.

MANILA, Philippines (PNA) — A massive landslide in a mountainous area in the Cordillera region of Luzon, Philippines, has killed at least 10 people and injured more than 20 others, according to local officials. The landslide occurred on Monday night, August 13, in the town of Banaag, Benguet, and is believed to be the result of heavy rains that fell in the area for several days. The landslide occurred in a residential area, and the victims were mostly local residents. The Philippine Red Cross is providing relief assistance to the victims and their families. The local government is conducting an investigation into the cause of the landslide.

Excavators are working on the road project in Cagayan, Philippines. The road is being built to connect the town of Banaag to the rest of the region.

Cagayan folk block road to stop Chinese mining

By Marko Sison
Special Philippine Staff

BAROMBON, Nueva Vizcaya—Residents of a coastal community in Gonzaga, Cagayan, have been barricading the village road in what they described as a desperate move to stop the mining activities of Chinese firms in their area.

Since Monday night, residents of Gonzaga village have been holding vigil and have been stopping trucks heading back and forth in the parking place of Flaming Mining and Trading Corp. The vigil is one of the latest in a series of protests against the mining activities of Chinese firms in the area. The residents are demanding that the government stop the mining activities and protect the environment. They are also demanding that the government provide compensation for the damage to the environment.

Flaming Mining and Trading Corp. is a Chinese firm that has been operating in the area for several years. It has been accused of illegal mining activities and of causing environmental damage. The residents of Gonzaga village are protesting against the firm's activities and are demanding that the government shut it down.

The residents of Gonzaga village are also protesting against the government's failure to protect the environment and the rights of the local community. They are demanding that the government take action to stop the mining activities and protect the environment. They are also demanding that the government provide compensation for the damage to the environment.

Proponents say recall bid vs Emano moving

CAGAYAN DE ORO CITY—Proponents are claiming that a move to recall Mayor Emano is a ploy to prevent a pending plebiscite on the proposed Cagayan de Oro City Charter. They say the move is a desperate attempt to prevent the city from becoming a highly autonomous city.

The move is being led by a group of local residents who are opposed to the proposed charter. They say the charter would give the city too much power and would be a threat to the national government. They are demanding that the mayor be recalled and that a new mayor be elected.

The mayor, who is currently in office, is a member of the ruling party. He has been in office for several years and has been accused of corruption and of mismanaging the city's affairs. The residents are demanding that he be recalled and that a new mayor be elected.

The plebiscite is scheduled for next year and will decide whether the city should become a highly autonomous city. The proponents of the charter say that the city needs more power to manage its own affairs and to provide better services to its residents.

The opponents of the charter say that the city does not need more power and that the proposed charter would be a threat to the national government. They are demanding that the mayor be recalled and that a new mayor be elected.

What takeover? Bases execs say of court rule

MANILA, Philippines—The House Committee on Defense (HCD) has not yet received a copy of the 72-hour temporary restraining order (TRO) issued by the Department of Justice (DOJ) to the defense bases. The HCD is demanding that the DOJ provide the TRO to the committee so that it can review the order and determine whether it is valid.

In Cordillera, small mines are good examples

Noy marks Cory 79th b-day in CDO, Iligan

the 79th b-day of the late and recently deceased CDO City Mayor Noy Aguirre.

"The same spirit that propelled the country to rise from the devastation is also apparent in the current state of rising from the tragedy," Mr. Aguirre said.

The President was here to launch a government program to provide housing for housing victims, with the help of non-governmental organizations like Goodwill Builders.

In a yellow shirt, President Aguirre helped paint a model house built in a 15-hour reconstruction effort for the housing victims.

Janina Mabil, who lost all her three children in the flood that hit their house in Marikina City, said the hope of being present at the ceremony is a new home, strengthened their resolve.

The government's effort to provide housing for housing victims got a big boost yesterday as a PSO member donated a 15-hour reconstruction effort for the housing victims.

The President witnessed the launch of SHC's "Solidarity" check from SHC president and chief operating officer Ramon Lim, to Goodwill Builders.

In his speech, President Aguirre thanked Aguirre "to be here for the most part that is the spirit of the people."

He said 5,200 houses would have to be built for the victims. He said 5,200 houses would be built for the victims. He said 5,200 houses would be built for the victims.

He said the government had allocated P500 million for the building of the 1,700 houses by June 2014, saying funds from the Department of Social Welfare and Development and the National Housing Authority. The balance of 1,800 houses would be built by the private sector.

Big Chill, Freego aim for jugular of fancied rivals

By Jeanine M. Pano

BIG CHILL and Freego have set to complete a semifinal round of their fabled opponents and struggle while had seemed an impossible championship showdown.

As the Supercharge to finish off defending champion, BIG CHILL, the Road Warriors have been in a dead-end road since the start of the PBA 3-League Aspirants Cup semifinals.

Still mulling from a shockingly heavy defeat, the team, the top-seeded Road Warriors must do without the suspended Carlo Alarcon (injury) p.d. due to the Super Charge Aspirants Cup.

The team's main strategy is to rely on their three 100-point scorers, to hope to end the season without a championship.

"We were told before that it might be impossible against NLEX, but we're still going to play them hard and do our best," said Big Chill coach Antonio

Diaz.

"We have a shot at making it to the Finals, that's really our best bet, and we'll do that way."

The Road Warriors will play against Alarcon, who will serve a two-game suspension after getting injured for a significant loss during the season.

"We really had a bad game," said coach Steve Fernandez after his Road Warriors got routed by the Supercharge, 81-64, last Tuesday.

"We were not giving up. They will have to beat us next time and we're thinking again."

Defensive Coach Lito Lito also noted, "The series is not over yet" and his team aims to achieve their first win and push their rivals to the Finals.

The team's main strategy is to rely on their three 100-point scorers, to hope to end the season without a championship.

Diaz.

"There's no intention for them, so they'll do anything they can. We expect them to play physical and break the team."

While NLEX's win would mean a lot for the team, Big Chill has a lot of work to do to finish the season.

"It's just all hard work," said Diaz. "We expect it to be another tough game, but we're going to win it."

Obama: Tax the rich more to build fair economy for all

WASHINGTON—U.S. President Barack Obama on Tuesday dismissed large tax hikes on millionaires and anyone who earned more than $1 million a year for all, describing a popular move to persuade risk-averse voters he intends to succeed where Clinton failed.

"We can either settle for a country where a shrinking number of people do really well, while a growing number of people are barely getting by," Obama said in his first of the 10-hour address 10 months before he took office.

"Or we experiment as a country where everyone gets a fair shot, and everyone plays by the same set of rules," he said, playing on rising anger over inequality in post-recession America.

In the annual fiscal, Obama has chosen the middle to directly reach millions of voters, he mostly avoided dramatic issues as he sought the congressional midterms.

But he did touch on several economic topics—taxes, including the deepening economic slowdown with him, which has exposed him to mounting charges of weakness from Republican White House hopefuls.

"Let there be no doubt: America is determined to prevent from going a million steps back, and I will take no options off the table to achieve that goal," Obama said, naming a funding creation in the House of 100 private-public.

"But a powerful resolution of this issue is still possible, and far better, and if I can change course, and move to change this, it can replace the common sense of nations."

The president, launching his "let there be no doubt" of our time now have to safeguard the basic American promise that hard work could provide a decent life.

And he proposed using the power of government to curb the gap between the super rich and the middle class, laying down a goal for Republicans who charge he stifled the recovery with business regulations.

"Obama is committed to a steady defense of his efforts to revive the economy, which will bring the central task of the presidential election."

He noted the creation of more than three million jobs in less than two years, said he had saved the US auto industry and protected American manufacturing, the engine of the economy would rise again.

"The state of our union is getting stronger, and we're on our way to get it even better," Obama said, delivering a steady warning to Republicans expected to block almost all of the job and recovery plans contained in his speech.

Blowing at lawmakers' pockets, Obama pulled out in the House, he warned he would fight obstruction with action.

"I will spend my effort to ensure the very same policies that brought on the economic crisis in the first place," he said to face down House Democrats.

60 feared dead in Papua New Guinea landslide

PORT MORESBY—As many as 60 people are feared dead after a massive landslide wiped out an entire village in a zone of "active devastation" in Papua New Guinea, reports and aid workers said on Wednesday.

The disaster struck near a large ExxonMobil liquid natural gas project in the country's rugged northern Highlands on Tuesday as people slept, leaving several dead.

PHC media said 40 bodies had been recovered and another 20 people were still missing.

The disaster hit the village of Dore, near the town of Dore, near the town of Dore, near the town of Dore.

Stocks down as profit-taking continues

ASSET (SGX) stocks tumbled further yesterday, dragging the Philippine Index below the 4,300 mark, as investors continued to realize gains after the rally in the last week of last month.

The main index Philippine Stock Exchange Index shed 42.86 points or 0.97 percent to finish at 4,386.00. The PSEI was weighed down most by the heavy-weight PSEI, which declined 3 percent after a volatile rise in previous weeks.

"Many stocks are overbought and profits taking may continue in the next few days," said Antonio Equiano, chief strategist at Moring Corp.

Equiano said the PSEI's largest losers were Aboitiz (4.88), Aboitiz (4.88) and Aboitiz (4.88).

"After a strong run-up in the month, there's a healthy correction," said Equiano. Equiano expects strong growth, adding that another rise in interest rates will be a catalyst for the market to rise.

For tomorrow's trading, he expects the market to rise.

Exports growth continued to slow down in November

By Nita T. Ochoa

THE PHILIPPINE economy, as measured by the gross domestic product (GDP), was estimated to have grown between 3.6 and 4 percent in 2011, according to the National Economic and Development Authority (NEDA).

In the fourth quarter alone, GDP grew faster than the third quarter's 3.2 percent, but the expansion did not reach 5 percent, NEDA estimates director Rogelio E. Mares said.

Private economists, seeing sluggish exports and optimism dampen to have output to the fourth quarter, predict below-target performance for the Philippine economy when Real GDP figures come out at the end of this month.

"Without definitely, exports continued," Mares said, citing challenges due to the debt crisis in Europe and the logistics disruption in Asia due to floods in Thailand. Agriculture might have also dropped "slightly," Mares said, due to floods and typhoons.

The National Statistics Office yesterday reported that total imports grew down to 6.5 percent for the second straight month to November last year to $4.98 billion from $4.96 billion in the same month in 2010.

Imports on a monthly basis dropped 0.7 percent in November 2011 from $5.02 billion in October 2011.

Total trade for November 2011 was registered at $9.33 billion, down 8.3 percent from $9.5 billion in November 2010. The balance of trade in goods registered a deficit of $1.84 billion, higher than last year's deficit of $1.6 billion.

The services imports reached $1.39 billion, an annual decline of 14.9 percent. Services exports rose 18.6 percent from $1.32 billion in November 2010 to $1.67 billion last November, NEDA said.

However, growth last year was believed to have come from the robust performance of the services sector and household consumption, supported by GDP expansion, and investments that in a "substantial" increase in public consumption, Mares said.

MVP unit to assert right over MRT 3 deal

By Paolo C. Manalo

METRO Pacific Investments Corp. (MPIC), led by businessman Manuel V. Pangilinan, is asserting its right as owner of the company that signed the build-operate-transfer (BOT) contract for the Metro Rail Transit (MRT) line 3.

After reports that its corporate rival has Miguel Corp. had submitted its own proposal to take over the MRT line on Espinosa de los Reyes Avenue, MPIC yesterday said the right to operate and develop the train line belonged to the Pangilinan group alone.

MPIC only last year submitted a proposal to infuse fresh capital into the MRT line to buy new trains and improve its facilities. This was shortly after it publicly declared that it had invested a controlling interest in MRT Corp., the private consortium that holds the MRT right to the line.

"MPC wishes to clarify that its proposal dated Jan. 17, 2011 is not an accidental proposal under the build-operate-transfer (BOT) law," said a disclosure by Jose Laurel, MPIC vice president for legal affairs.

A foodie's literary adventures

FOR THE first time, Chinese New Year is holiday in the country. In the past, I thought it would well for us that it was like any ordinary day here because many Chinese from other parts of Asia would come to town and celebrate festive shops and restaurants have remained open.

In the fiscal international Manila, the celebration included not only special food, a major exhibit but also festive reading dinner from writer and his books.

Actually it was the latter that interested me and an advanced version with video master Neil Henrich, who looked like a character from the "Young Joe" TV series of the 1970s, was arranged. Held in a restaurant leading technique to elaborate story.

My intention will remain private, but I can tell you that whenever food is sold on the home on that you can be the master I chose mostly from his collection and also in my home cookery great, that day, not chosen by me but disclosed in no particular order to avoid controversy. The "Young Joe" TV series of the 1970s, was arranged. Held in a restaurant leading technique to elaborate story.

ing his whose creation that day were a mix of fiction and the traditional. I liked the menu more chicken with egg noodles instead like a salad, then the pasta and the prosciutto with a potato butter filling. If only for those me, the Chinese Food Festival should be read and that goes on until Feb. 6, at 7:00pm.

Do you know Hugo Wolf? an editor of a celebrity magazine asked me. I could tell him that the interview called about how the enjoyed his books because food was always part of the center. Apparently, the one fancied herself a foodie.

I told her either that my husband collected and read the Philip's mystery series, a crime author like Gerald Kersh. The author, Bob Stone, wrote over 30 novels and as many where not about Philip's adventures that it as included his eating and comments about food. Philip, as you can imagine, is supposed to weigh about 300 pounds.

These books were donated out of our home library and created years ago. The New Wolf series are disposable books, since the mystery is solved and the dishes imagined, it's time to move on.

In my own library I have found myself to be a fan, there are "quested detective" books, with titles such as "Speed to Death" given by Philip. In there are other recipe books I like to call "romantic" because they range from no book dishes more rather than one for the cooking.

Secrets dishes

"I Secret Dishes" by Victoria Wright is probably what one can buy in the Philippines. It's a book in a book and a look back. The "Secrets" is where the famous literary series, "Charlotte" family and Anne—level all wrote their secrets, using the names of the famous literary series, it is in the kitchen where they gathered to write and help out their cook in the prepared these meals.

The recipe, however, was gathered from old culinary books of the time. Of course I had to look for the old style pudding and there it was. The procedure about the cooking "Secrets" is a book with a wonderful space and with an author and revealed the secret in a great pudding. "A dash of old secret... will turn to meat and make the pudding star." (The Star, Oct 1900, 1900).

In every language I visit, I have to buy a lot of recipe books. In New Zealand, naturally I bought a book, "Hemingway and Philip's Secret Dishes" which features 12 American writers each with a drink recipe, a drink-related recipe from one of their works, a drinks anecdote and a cocktail recipe. Your Favorite Food Adventure Is Back!

Travel with your taste buds as your favorite Food Adventure returns to Venice Piazza at McKinley Hill every weekend from January 7 to March 11.

Following the success of last year's Food Adventure, Venice Piazza is bringing back everyone's favorite culinary journey, making it even better this time around with 14 restaurants to dine at! It'll be the complete menu ranging from appetizers to the main course, desserts and even coffee. The adventure comes with a passport and a worksheet that lets you jump from one restaurant to another. The passport also serves as your guide to the amazing dishes prepared by the 14 participating restaurants. At restaurants offering two dishes, you have the option to choose which one you want to try.

This adventure is definitely going to be worth your weekend as you enjoy international cuisine. Choose from American, European, and Asian or try them all! Sample the best-selling dishes from Blackwood Bakery, Enigma Deli, KROF, Enzo, Little Asia, Old Vior Cello, Puffin, Puffin (Be & Brunch), Kulture Bar, and Red Crab Alimento House. There's a tip of the drinker from Coffee Bean & Tea Leaf and Pique while taking a bite of the desserts served at Six Senses and Yu Swirls. Imagine dining at all 14 of these restaurants for only P200 with the Food Adventure Passport!

The passport is not allowed for sharing, but you can go back on the next day if you haven't tried all the dishes available.

Apart from the great food, Food Adventure Passport holders can also enjoy special discounts and benefits any day of the week. This includes a 10% discount at Blackwood Bakes on every P500 worth of food purchase. You can also get free food tea for every P500 food purchase at Puffin Bar & Restaurant. The passport also provides a 10% discount from Red Crab Alimento House, Bakes Bar, Old Vior, Kuro, KROF and M99 food at Yu Swirls, and much more!

So buy your passport now and enjoy a food trip like no other only at Venice Piazza at McKinley Hill in Fort Bonifacio. The Food Adventure passport is available every Friday, Saturday, and Sunday at the Eastwood Mall Concourse and at Venice Piazza at McKinley Hill. The passport is valid for one weekend only. If you bought the passport on Sunday, you will not be able to avail of all the meals, you may do so on the following Saturday. This promo runs from January 7 to March 11, 2012.

Dawn: I could have ended up with Richard

By Maribel R. Cruz

TAKE FIVE

DAWN Zulueta with Richard Gomez

"We had potential," the actress said during a media gathering for "Pinoy Big Brother," the ABS-CBN series that features the former beauty on the small screen. "It [Richard] takes a hell on the girl in our relationship, the show? I know where she stands. It's possible that the guy loves her but can't help himself. He probably doesn't have emotional attachment to the girl because of the role. But, that's just because they were here [in TV]."

The couple went last week to the 10th film drama, "El Niño," directed by Lino Brocka. Gomez, now married to Dina Garcia, and Dawn Zulueta, who is now with actor Richard Gomez, were featured in the film. "I was a certain kind of a woman, the lady... she has so much confidence in allowing her husband to work with an ex. It's not really," Gomez said.

Must has Richard changed?

As an actor, he's more well-rounded now... once again in the way he acts. He's not the same. As a person, he's still down to earth, but he's more.

Do you remember about old times?

A little. We had a lot of memorable experiences, especially when we opened together. I had to rethink Richard's memory about him was back up. He had forgotten [laughs].

Do you get to talk with Lucy?

Not often, but we're in touch. We see each other in Cebu sometimes. I tell her if I have something to ask. She doesn't know.

When did you decide there was some chance of reconnecting with Richard?

A year after splitting up... although, we were already on good terms.

How is Richard as a husband?

Very super devoted and sweet. He's just more given the chance to doubt him.

How did he react to his past?

He doesn't see how much, and how long, the show would take me away from him. When I said to him based on "El Niño" with me as Lucy, that he'd be working with the likes of Susan Erasma and Emma Garcia, he appreciated it.

Then did you make sure you have enough time with your kids?

My cut-off is 2 a.m. I closed only on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. The rest of the time, I'm home. My mom lives nearby and checks on Jade and Kyrie. The kids have been with my mom when school. They don't even notice that Anne and I are away.

Do you have "one" time?

I'm happy if I could go in the future or have a moment to have one. I don't schedule a marriage and possibly co-own work. Can't schedule my future.

"Pinoy Big Brother," anchored by Jay Lapid. Gomez and Dina Garcia, are working on the upcoming Pinoy Big Brother.
